

Climate Governance Integrity Programme (CGIP)

The Climate Governance Integrity Programme (CGIP) is designed to ensure that climate finance is governed with integrity, transparency, and accountability, so the most vulnerable communities can adapt to the climate crisis in 25+ countries around the world, including Nepal. By emphasizing a bottom-up approach, the CGIP is articulated around three outcomes: climate policy (so that policy-making processes relating to climate action are more transparency, accountable, and inclusive), climate action (so that there is improved accountability, integrity, and oversight of climate-related action globally and locally), and climate justice (so that there are improved justice outcomes for victims of environmental crime and corruption).

CGIP Nepal Activities

The CGIP Nepal activities are part of the 25+ country-level activities promoted by the Transparency International Secretariat. They have been designed with due consideration to the climate change-related context in Nepal and primarily focus on:

- Research and advocacy on conflict of interest or undue influence related to climate on alternative energy, fossil fuels, etc.
- Awareness-raising through traditional and new media of climate integrity initiatives
- Building the capacity of government and stakeholders on climate change accountability issues
- Educating youth to expand their knowledge on climate crimes
- Conducting research and advocacy on climate funding, environmental integrity, etc.
- Promoting integrity pledges in governmental and private funding on climate agendas
- Engaging the community to watch clean energy, green spaces, climate disaster preparedness, etc.
- Promoting social accountability tools at the local governmental level for environment protection, land use, etc.
- Mapping climate project actions and outcomes at the national and local level
- Promoting reports and stories on climate loss and damage, disaster preparedness, etc.
- Conducting mobile ALAC for redressing environment and climate complaints of indigenous people, victims, and vulnerable
- National and international experience sharing of Nepal's NDCs, NAPA, CoP outcomes, etc.

CGIP Nepal has been approved by the Ministry of Forest and Environment, Kathmandu Metropolitan City and Social Welfare Council Nepal.
