

Governance Initiative Nepal (GIN)

Introduction

TI Nepal's GIN project intends to increase its network of partnerships with state-level, media, private and CSO, and professional organizations to foster accountability, information, integrity, and leadership. It will map and sensitize the gendered impacts of corruption, building advocacy networks with single women, LGBTQ+, migrants, and sexual victims who are affected by corruption. It will analyse policy and legal frameworks and make recommendations to strengthen anti-corruption legislation and policy.

GIN intends to use analytical tools to provide information about corruption, risks, vulnerabilities, and their impacts to the public and decision-makers. It will facilitate social accountability tools to help citizens engage with their government for sustainable improvement in service delivery. It will focus on promoting political integrity engagement with voters, political parties, and parliament to prevent conflict of interest, disinformation, and other forms of corruption. GIN will initiate activities that assist in the sustainability of TI Nepal's actions.

Project Interventions:

- Outreach and awareness-raising among communities facilitated
- TIN contribution made to networks and partnerships
- Gendered impacts of corruption mapped and sensitized
- Policy and legal frameworks analysed and recommendations made
- Evidence and information about corruption provided through research
- Social accountability tools designed, developed and implemented
- Redressal of public complaints
- Sustainability of action

Project Tenure

- September 2024 to February 2029

Project Budget

- NPR 44,987,384 equivalent to Euro 309,513

Donor

- Transparency International e.v

Project Approval

- Kathmandu Metropolitan City
- Social Welfare Council

Contact person

- Binod Bhattarai, Senior Officer